Tygers Top Marion by 33 to 13 Score Before 6,500

HOME GRIDDERS SHOW POWER IN OPENING GAME

Big Crowd Watches Snydermen Push Across Markers In Every Period.

By FRED THARP
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

Scoring in every period, the husky Mansfield Senior high footballers humbled the Marion Harding Presidents, 33 to 13, last night before an overflow crowd of 6,500 at Stadium field.

Sticking almost exclusively to a ground attack, Coach Paul Snyder's gridmen rolled over the undermanned Prexies for two touchdowns in the opening stanza and added one in each of the other three periods.

Marion pulled into pay-dirt in the third quarter to climax a 69-yard march. The Presidents uncorked the game's top bit of legerdemain to count their second six-pointer on the last play.

Quarterback Jim Rae tossed a 25-yard lateral to Jim Coss who heaved a long forward pass beyond the Tyger defense. Gene Peadon, a pint-sized substitute end, cut behind the Mansfield safety man, grabbed the ball on the 25-yard line and streaked into the promised land. The play covered 56 yards.

Pass Defense Weak.

The heavy Tyger forwards kept the Marion running attack under control, but the Mansfield pass-defense leaked like a sieve Marion, with Rae, Coss and Jim Hill tossing the pigskin, completed 13 of 23 tosses for a total of 192 yards.

However, Mansfield's potent ground attack exploded all over the stadium with the power of an atomic bomb blast. Ken Horvath, the game's individual star, Ralph Majors and Bill McKee contributed the major portion of the Tygers' 308-yard ground offensive.

Horvath, a 16-year old senior, tallied in each quarter on thrusts of one, 11, six and three yards. He was most effective on quick-opening plays from the T. formation and picked up a total of 108 yards. The Tyger fullback veteran toted the leather 15 times for an average of 7.2 yards.

McKee, Mansfield century track ace, turned in the game's two longest dashes. He shook loose on a sweep for 23 yards in the opening stanza and broke away for 25 in the final period.

Majors picked up 88 yards by rushing and scored the Bengal's second marker on an eight-yard sweep in the opening heat.

Mansfield's power asserted itself immediately following the opening kickoff. With Horvath, Majors and Ollie Cline carrying the mail, the Tygers marched 72 yards to the Harding 16-yard line only to lose the ball on a fumble.

Three plays later, Hill punted to Cline on the Harding 44 and Ollie returned to the 30. Horvath piled over left tackle for seven yards and then smashed the middle for 13. Majors carried the oval five yards and a Marion off-

MAYOR ACTS

Names Committee to Seek Truck Strike Peace.

NEW YORK —(INS)— A new move to settle the truck strike which has brought New York City near economic paralysis was made today by Mayor William O'Dwyer.

Two of the city's largest food chains, the A&P and Safeway Stores, announced they would close their 740 stores at 6 p. m. and not reopen until the strike is settled because of inability to get deliveries.

Mayor O'Dwyer appointed a committee of six prominent New Yorkers to intercede in the negotiations and attempt to bring the unions and operators together. Such committees have been highly successful in other major strike difficulties.

SIX KILLED IN RIOTS

BOMBAY —(U.P.)— Six persons were killed and 37 injured today in a sudden renewal of the Hindu-Moslem rioting that has wracked the city for the past week.

Family of Ten Left Homeless

By MARGUERITE MILLER

Where were you last night, dear reader? Were you at home with the warmth and protection of four walls around you?

Lawrence Burge, his wife and eight of their nine children were not. Throughout the day and until late evening they sat on the front porch of what had been their home at 230 East Second street for three and one-half years.

WON'T FORGET FRIDAY 13TH.

They won't forget Friday the 13th! Neither will their son, Pvt. Charles Burge, who is en route from China after a year overseas to a home which no longer exists.

Burge and his wife, Mildred, took their family into the house on East Second street in 1942. The first of last May the owner sold the house and the Burges were served notice to move. Bad luck has dogged the footsteps of Mrs. Burge who has tramped the streets of the city looking for a new home for her family.

Last night, the five younger children, David, 10, Dorothy, 8, Sandra, 5, and the little twins, Lester and Esther, three and one-half years, stayed with Mrs. Burge's mother, who lives near Mt. Vernon.

The three older boys, Donald, 16, and the elder twins, Robert and Raymond, 13, stayed with a friend Burge and his wife spent the night at a neighbor's.

But their plight is far from solved. Mrs. Burge's mother, who has recently recovered from an injury, will resume work Monday and the children will have to be returned to their parents' care.

THEY DO NOT BLAME ANYONE.

"We can get by with six rooms if we have to," Mrs. Burge said. "As many houses as are being torn down for business places it seems a shame a person doesn't have a place to live."

Only other alternative for the destitute family is an uncle of the mother, whose wife is bedfast and whose home can hardly accommodate both his children and the eight little Burges.

"There hasn't been a single day

Missing Curls Preserved In Washer 6 Years

A baby's curls are often tied with a ribbon and preserved in a small box tucked away in a drawer for future views. But it's not often that thep pop up after six years in a washing machine!

Mrs. Marie Kircher, 142 North Weldon avenue, was doing the family washing six years ago. While she was in the yard hanging up the clothes, her little son, Ralph, then 11 months old, crawled under the washer. When she returned to her washing, she noticed that the baby had a large bald spot on the top of his head.

Four months' treatment by a doctor restored the hair growth, but the mystery of what happened to the hair remained. Then, this week, Mrs. Kircher called a repairman for her washer. The fabric covering from the connection on the washer was removed to make the repair.

There, inside the connection, perfectly preserved by the machine oil which had dropped on them, were three little curls—the very ones which had disappeared from the top of the baby's head!

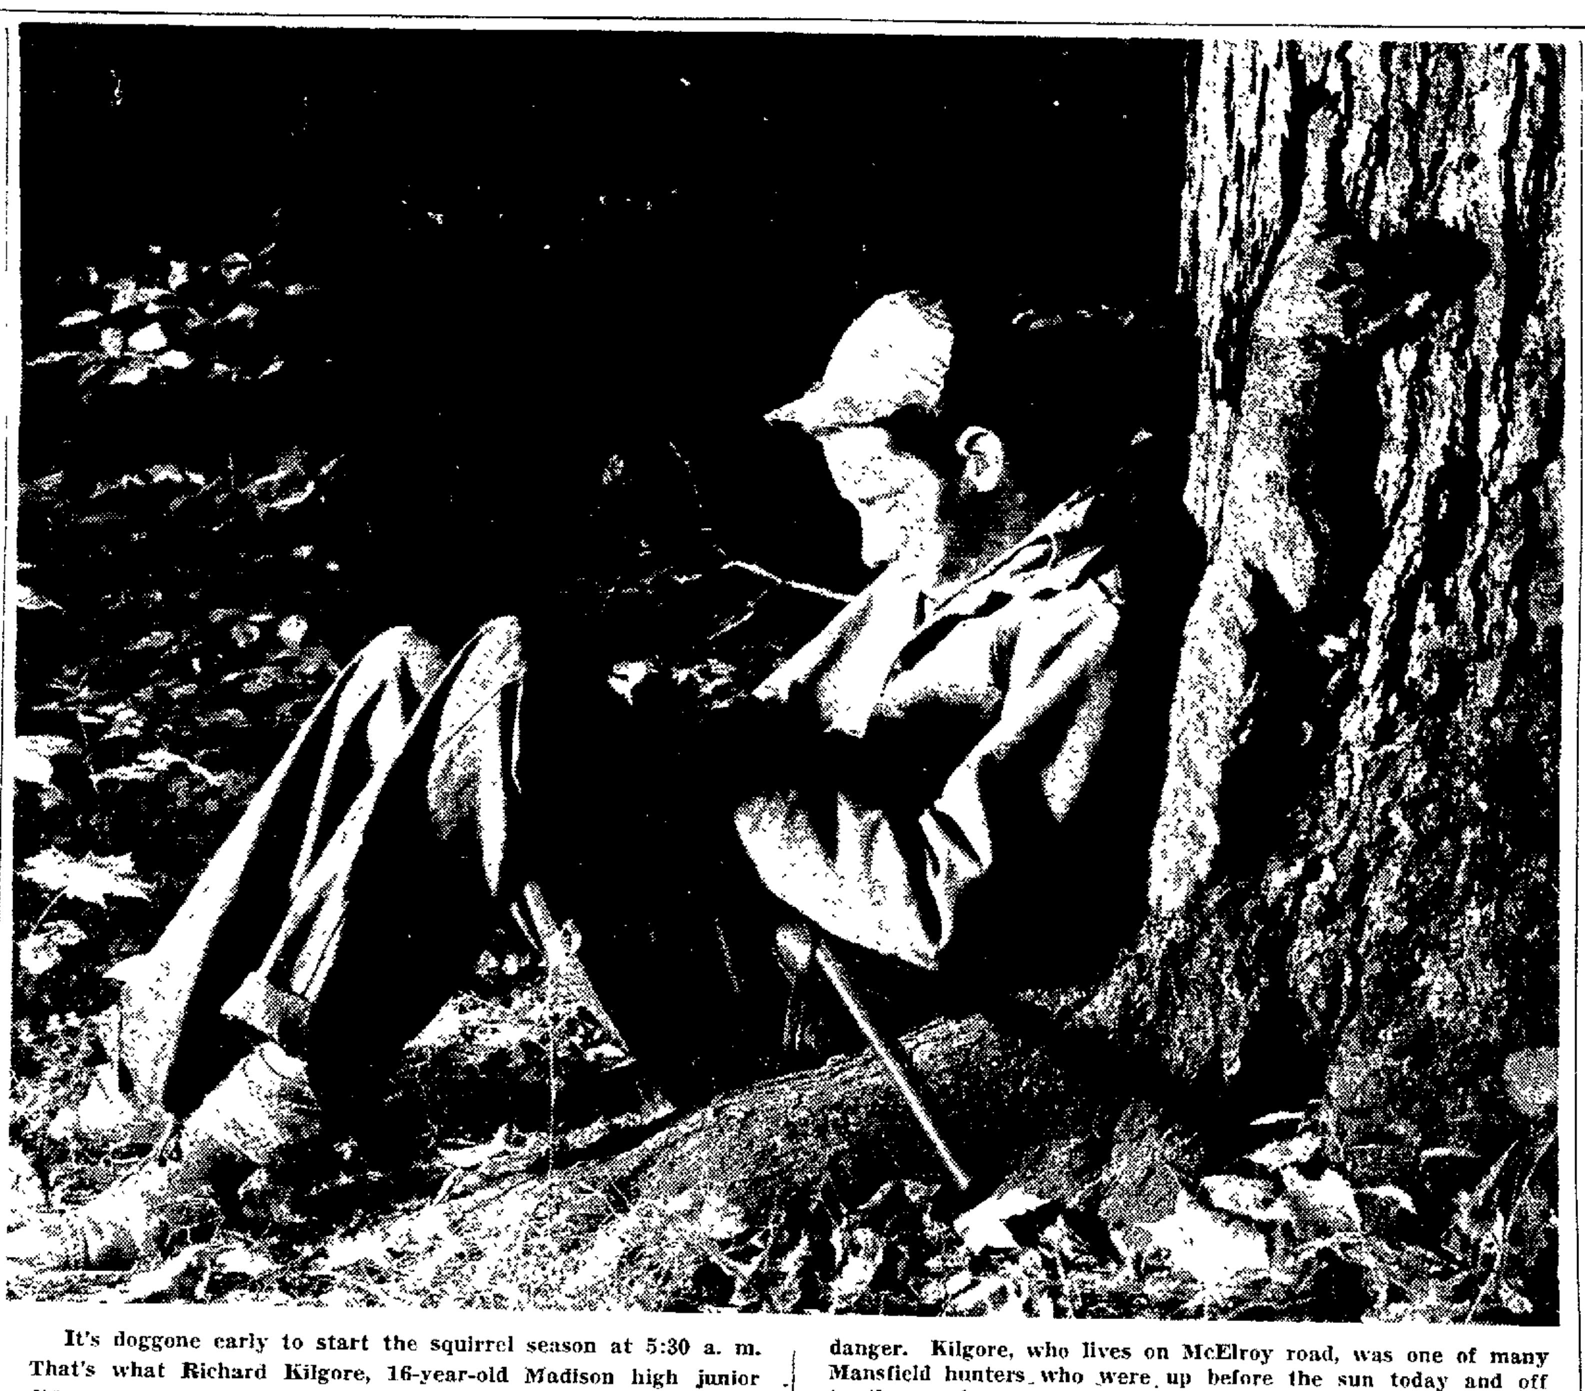
BULLETIN

Richland county commissioners today made application to State Treasurer Don H. Ebright for the county's $64.149 share of the state veterans' emergency housing fund. Commissioners passed the resolution shortly before noon and the application was mailed immediately to the state treasurer, C. L. Shoup, president of the board, reported.



It's doggone early to start the squirrel season at 5:30 a. m. That's what Richard Kilgore, 16-year-old Madison high junior did, and while he snatched a few winks, Mr. Bushytail took advantage of the situation and scrambled up the tree and out of danger. Kilgore, who lives on McElroy road, was one of many Mansfield hunters who were up before the sun today and off to the woods for their limit of four squirrels. Nimrods are expected to keep the little fluffy-tailed animals busy until Sept. 28 when the season closes.

PLENTY OF GAME, BUT NO SHELLS

Squirrel Hunters Run Into Ammunition Shortage.

Hundreds of Mansfield and Richland county hunters took to the woods at daybreak today with the opening of squirrel season, but old Bushy Tail wasn't too concerned for his safety, due to a scarcity of shotgun shells.

The supply of squirrels was reported plentiful as the season got underway, but Mansfield nimrods will have to make every shot count if they hope to bag their daily limit of four animals. The season closes Sept. 28.

Sporting goods stores throughout the city report that no 4-10 shells are available, and that 12, 16 and 20-gauge ammunition is scarce. Several stores, though, have adequate supplies of rifle and high powered cartridges.

Spokesmen for two major ammunition manufacturers stated that neither company has made any ammunition since last March, and won't make any for the remainder of this year.

PASS PICKETS

AFL Seamen Go to Work As CIO Continues Negotiation.

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— AFL Seamen and Longshoremen passed through picket lines of the National Maritime union (CIO) at several ports today, but the NMU's strike effectively continued the shipping tie-up at coastal ports. There were no disturbances.

The NMU, striking yesterday as AFL maritime unions ended their eight-day strike, were to resume negotiations at 4 p. m., EDT, today with the American Merchant Marine Institute.

No decision was reached at a meeting which lasted until early today. The NMU demands were not disclosed, but presumably the CIO union sought wage increases to equal those won by the Seafarers International union and the Sailors union of the Pacific, (both AFL).

Mrs. Churchill Hurt Slightly

BERN, Switzerland—(AP)—Mrs. Winston Churchill, wife of Britain's wartime prime minister, was injured slightly yesterday in a speedboat accident on Lake Geneva. A member of the household said she would be "obliged to rest for a few days."

Inez Robb, Noted INS Writer, Visits Malabar

By VIRGINIA LEE

She's travelled with Queen Elizabeth and King George, circled the globe several times in interviewing the world's great and near great, and even helped the Duke of Windsor buy a windbreaker in a Sears, Roebuck store, but this week she turned from such sophisticated circles for a visit in Lucas.

Inez Robb, International News Service's versatile reporter, is the guest of the Louis Bromfields at Malabar farm. Her husband, J. Addison Robb, is expected to arrive there today from New York.

Being on the "replying" end of an interview was a new experience for Mrs. Robb. (I am not sure yet who interviewed whom for her interest in the Lucas community's affairs was as genuine as my interest in the career which has taken her 65,000 miles in the past 11 months.)

"I'm just reading and resting," Mrs. Robb explained, and it was not hard to understand why the lithesome and attractive blond newspaper woman might need some rest. She returned earlier this month from her latest trek through South and Central America where she viewed tangled political situations and gathered opinions concerning such weighty issues as the atomic bomb.

The answer?

"The world is just a little more muddled than I thought. I talked to officials throughout Central and South America, wrote thousands of words, tangible quotes and

DEALS IN AUTOS

OPA Suspends Investigator Pending Inquiry.

CINCINNATI —(AP)—A district OPA staff investigator was under suspension today pending an inquiry into his dealings in automobiles.

John E. Robinson, director of the Cincinnati OPA district, said Ralph Nash, an investigator for the industrial material division, would be "off the job until we have looked into the facts of this case."

The OPA director said the Cincinnati Used Car Dealers association had brought to his attention the fact that Nash had purchased four new 1946 automobiles in eight months and subsequently sold three.

Robinson said Nesh insisted all the dealings were above board and according to regulations. Nash was an automobile dealer for several years before joining OPA. He declined comment.

MIAMI, Fla. — (AP) — Northeast storm warnings were ordered up along the Atlantic coast from Cape Hatteras to Block Island today as a severe tropical hurricane believed to pack 100-mile winds roared northeastward over the Atlantic.

About Food, Hats and The Coming Election

Timeliest question among Mansfield housewives right now is: "What do we use for meat?" An authoritative answer is brought to you in the Sunday News-Journal through an illustrated story titled "'No Meat' Signs Don't Worry Dietician."

In the weekly forum citizens discuss whether or not price controls should be taken off meat to improve the supply.

And there's a canning story from Ganges to round out the food picture.

One of the best known milliners in this part of Ohio is not Lily Dache or John-Fredrics, but Eddie Stover of Hayesville! Women come from all over the state to buy his hats. His story forms the basis of another interesting Sunday feature.

And on the news side, there will be a round-up of election candidates and issues to give readers a background for the coming campaign.

INJURIES IN MISHAP FATAL

Miss Virginia Harper Becomes 13th Traffic Victim.

Miss Virginia D. Harper, 25, of 49 Wise avenue, last night became Richland county's 13th traffic fatality of the year when she died of injuries suffered Thursday night when she was struck by an auto at Marion avenue and Wood street.

Richland County's 1946 Traffic Toll
This Date Last Year—7

Miss Harper died in General hospital of a skull fracture. This year's traffic toll is nearly double the seven who had died in traffic mishaps on county streets and highways by this time in 1945. Miss Harper, was struck by a car driven by Wilmer L. Gross, 62, of 93 Dawson avenue. Gross told police that he didn't see Miss Harper as she crossed Marion avenue because lights from an approaching car blinded him. The driver said he was traveling about 25 miles an hour.

The traffic bureau reported today that no charges had been placed against Gross.

Born in Dixie, W. Va., Dec. 24, 1920, Miss Harper came to Mansfield three years ago and was employed by the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company. She made her home with Mr and Mrs. Robert Montague of the Wise avenue address.

Surviving are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harper; three brothers, Cecil, Ray and Ralph Harper; two sisters, Miss Mabel Harper and Mrs Ruth Lanham, all of West Virginia.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home for burial preparation and later taken to Clendenin, W. Va., for services and burial.

Army Officers Smash Camera

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—Associated Press Photographer Allen Snipes was beaten and his $250 camera was smashed last night by a group of army officers as the photographer atempted to take a picture of a free-for-all fight at a football game.

The fight occurred on the playing field after Oklahoma City university's 27-0 victory over the Air Transport Command.

Snipes said a lieutenant colonel warned him not to take the picture and with three other air forces men attacked him when he ignored the caution.

Chickens Appealed to Johnny

Two-year-old John Owens, of 447 Grace street, was not the least concerned about the excitement he caused in his neighborhood yesterday.

You see, Johnny took his dog for a stroll and became interested in some chickens belonging to Mrs. E. F. Hagan, 461 Central avenue. So he let himself into the pen with the chickens for a closer look.

There Mrs. Hagan found him when she went to feed the poultry. When she couldn't identify the boy, she reported to police who soon located Johnny's anxious parents.

1 DIES, 20 HURT AS ARKANSAS HOTEL BURNS

Legless War Vet and Infant Reported Missing; Others May Be.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark.—(UP)—Fire roared through the Great Northern hotel early today and within 90 minutes destroyed the structure, a landmark of this resort city, where possibly 100 persons were guests for the night.

At least one person died in the blaze, police said, and a legless Spanish-American war veteran and an infant were reported missing. Twenty persons were taken to the City hospital or the Army-Navy general hospital, some with critical burns.

Some guests, many of whom were cripples seeking treatment at the resort's famous health baths, ran through the holocaust to safety; others leaped into firemen's nets.

One report said a number of other crippled Spanish-American war veterans may have been trapped by the flames. Firemen said it might be tomorrow before the hot ruins could be searched for bodies.

The first known fatality was a man who jumped to the pavement from the third and top floor of the hotel, police said.

The fire, starting at 12:30 a. m., raced through the 50-year-old structure so rapidly that by the time firemen answered the first alarm the place was a pillar of smoke and flames.

TO USE SCRIP

Army Order Designed to Curb Soldier Black Marketing.

FRANKFURT—(AP)—In a move to smash black marketing by American soldiers, the U. S. army has announced it will issue scrip next Tuesday in lieu of Allied marks as the legal tender in all post exchanges and other military establishments in the American zone of Germany.

Unofficial reports said that millions of dollars obtained through black market operations have been sent back to the states by American soldiers and civilians in the past 18 months. Recently, under a strict currency control system, the flow of illicit dollars to the U. S. has been greatly retarded, but under the scrip system, it is expected that even that leak will be plugged.

One Missed Glance Permits Robbery

DAYTON — (INS) — Genevieve Crawford entered the Progressive Loan company in Dayton to make a payment yesterday.

Office Manager Robert Ellis conducted the transaction in the normal manner—with one exception. On her receipt, he hastily wrote the words, "get a policeman—holdup."

Miss Crawford casually picked up the receipt and tucked it in her purse without a glance.

An armed robber then completed his interrupted business, scooping $100 from a cash drawer and fleeing. He missed $10,000 when Ellis told him he was unable to open the office safe.

COX PAYS TOO MUCH

DAYTON — (U.P.) — James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio, today was credited by the internal revenue bureau with an overpayment of $26,573 on his 1945 income tax.

VANDENBERG ISSUES PLEA FOR U. S. UNITY

GOP Invites President to Choose Between Byrnes and Wallace.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)— Undersecretary of State Will Clayton went into conference with President Truman today at the White House. His visit was not officially announced beforehand and there was no formal explanation of its purpose.

Official informants said Clayton, current director of the state department, had protested to the White House about two hours before Secretary Wallace delivered his speech in New York Thursday night.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Republicans accused President Truman today of angling for political advantage on the issue of American relations with Russia and invited him to choose between Secretary of State Byrnes and Secretary of Commerce Wallace as his exponent of foreign policy.

In Paris, Senator Arthur Vandenberg called for unity on American foreign policy, declaring "we can only cooperate with one secretary of state at a time."

"Rightly or wrongly, Paris is doubtful of this unity this morning," said the Michigan Republican, adviser to Byrnes at the peace conference.

Peace conference sources said Byrnes had not been consulted about the Wallace speech either before or after its delivery.

Repercussions Elsewhere.

There were widening repercussions elsewhere from the president's prior approval of Wallace's Thursday night plea at a New York political meeting for a softer policy toward Russia and his endorsement of the sphere-of-influence idea previously repudiated by Byrnes.

1. It became clear that Mr. Truman has a full-sized cabinet split over foreign policy on his hands.

2. Some uncertainty over policy was evidenced at the state department.

3. In London, a spokesman said the British foreign office was particularly surprised at Wallace's criticism of "British imperialism." Radio commentators there took that note and also criticized Wallace's warning against close identification of American foreign policy with that of Great Britain.

Requires Unity.

"I am sure most Republicans, despite inevitable differences in some aspects, will be glad to continue to seek unity with the administration in bipartisan foreign

Books for the Younger Set

Books reviewed in this column will be available Monday at the Public Library.

Everyone has seen vegetable stands along the roadside in summertime, but whoever heard of a KITTEN STAND? Elizabeth Coatsworth has written a book about one. Kate had too many kittens and her mother said they must be killed. Kate couldn't bear the thought of that so she promised to find homes for them all. It seemed like a good idea but it didn't work. Then Kate had another idea, she set up a stand by the side of the road and sold her kittens, and others, too, for 25c. a pound. Many people going by stopped and laughed, but they bought the kittens. Everyone had fun, and so will you if you read the book.

It doesn't seem that history people were ever little children, were ever naughty, ever laughed and teased their sister. BOY OF OLD BOSTON by Augusta Stevenson is a book that takes a man right out of the history book and makes him real. Paul Revere was a little boy. He climbed on ships where he had no right to be, broke the rules in school, and wrote verses making fun of the King of England. But he fooled the King's soldiers while he was only a boy. After you read this book you will find other books about other historical people that are just as good.

Candy Kane is back. This time she helps an old man to train a race horse. It is not simple and in ONE FOR THE MONEY by Janet Lambert Candy is kept busy. Candy needs help in training the horse and that takes money. She has to get "Mr. Smith," the horse, into a training stable and that takes fast talking, she has to watch a rider cheat and make Mr. Smith lose the race and that takes courage. Then she has to pay the bills and that takes more money. To get it Candy—but why spoil the book? Come find out for yourself.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, September 15.

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds excellent auguries for the attainment of honors, distinction, dignities and various forms of promotion and preferment, whether in church, state, professional, social or cultural life. High objectives and aspirations are in order, but they must be backed up by diligence, sound judgment and possibly some form of exceptional or unique talent or discovery.

Work toward such special goals with "might and main" plus assurance, but with an eye to a surprising denouement.

Those whose birthday it is have a most thrilling and romantic year ahead, with every prospect of special fulfillments or crisis in a singularly rich field of promise and adventure. Honors, distinction, tokens of preferment and appreciation are indicated from the "seats of the mighty," although such must be merited by sound and sane pursuit of objectives or of techniques along original, inventive or creative lines.

Hard work, diligence and far-seeing plans and policies are bound to invoke exceptional returns for work well done. Seek such with assurance, but modesty.

A child born on this day may be endowed with certain exceptional or unique talents, creative and ingenious, which may find sustained and pleasant rewards

Vary Lunchbox Routine

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS

One of the toughest jobs for any woman who cooks is to provide a variety of interesting, palatable nutritious food in a lunchbox which has to be packed day after day.

Lots of us have to do it, though. Any man who works in a plant needs a good lunch. Lots of children take their lunch to school. Almost anybody, big or little gets very tired of lunch out of a box unless the person who provides it has imagination and real interest in providing an appetizing variety.

One thing I'd like to point out: On warm days, even in autumn, a cold drink makes the lunchbox much more appealing. For the worker in office or plant, make it iced tea, prepared far enough ahead to get it icy cold, well doctored with lemon slices and perhaps some sprigs of mint, and then poured chilled into the thermos jug.

For the young, make a citrus fruit ade, or just ice cold milk, perhaps with chocolate beaten into it.

Now what's to go with this cold drink for September lunches? Sandwiches must be used at least a part of the time. The big trick is not to have them always the easiest thing—cold cuts or a slice of chees or somethin gelse equally dull Here's a good one, for example:

Man-Sized Sandwich.

¼ cup sharp American cheese, grated
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
4 ounces canned corned beef
¼ cup finely chopped sour-sweet pickles
1 tablespoon grated onion
2 tablespoons minced parsley or celery

Cream the cheese well with the mayonnaise. Add corned beef, finely shredded. Mix well and add remaining ingredients. Season with salt, paprika, curry powder and Worcestershire sauce Lay lettuce leaves on rye bread and spread with this mixture.

Always include some raw vegetable Right now, though, there's a great plenty of vegetables to be had and almost all of them are delicious raw. But never forget to put in a bit of salt and pepper—or sometimes, for a change, smoked hickory salt or one of the many types of seasoned salts.

If you just get some paper cups with lids, or use old mayonnaise jars with screw tops you can send workers off with relicious salads to vary the old sandwich routine. With any of these send crisp crackers or melba toast so that there is variety even in the bread department Here are some suggestions for box-lunch salads:

Salad Combinations.

Crab-Meat mixed with mayonnaise on raw spinach.

Crab-Meat and green bean salad with mayonnaise on lettuce

Egg Salad with green pepper rings and whole anchovies on lettuce.

Chopped devilled egg salad on shredded cabbage.

Tomato stuffed with cole slaw.

Potato salad with ham shreds on lettuce.

Mixed cooked vegetable salad on lettuce

Mushrooms and tuna fish with mayonnaise, sprinkled with crisp bacon.

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

THE PRICE OF A BAD TEMPER

To lose your temper isn't nice,
And always you must pay a price.
-Old Mother Nature

Reddy Fox doesn't often lose his temper. He is too smart for that But the smartest folks sometimes do things they know they shouldn't and Reddy had foolishly let his temper get away from him. It was all on account of disappointments A little Rabbit too young to know anything of the Great World, who didn't even know who Reddy was and so should have been easy to catch, had somehow managed to remain safe. Several times he had seemed just about to hop into Reddy's mouth only to turn and hop right back to the middle of his bramble-tangle This last time Reddy had lost his temper and done a foolish thing: he had tried to go into that bramble-tangle after the little Rabbit.

He didn't get far. The brambles and the briars saw to that They tore his coat They scratched his face. They made him yelp and whine And they stopped him He had to back out and that wasn't easy. He got more scratches, more tears in his coat Here and there thorns clung to little tufts of red hair. But he didn't give up His temper wouldn't let him. If anything, it was worse than before He was more determined than ever to get the little Rabbit. He ran around to another side of the bramble-tangle and tried to crawl in there. All the time he was growling dreadful threats, telling the little Rabbit that he might as well come out first as last for he was going to be caught anyway.

Meanwhile, Little Wobblenose was as badly scared a small Rabbit as ever had a white tail or twitched a wobbly little nose When he saw Reddy Fox crawling in under the brambles he hurried along a little path to the other side. In places that little path became a tunnel through walls of tangled green briars, plenty big enough for a Rabbit but much too small for a Fox When he reached the other side he would have left that bramble-tangle in a hurry for a safer place had he known of one near enough. He didn't. Too frightened to even think he still did the wise thing, probably because he couldn't think, he waited. When he saw that Reddy couldn't get through after him he felt better. He was still frightened. Of course He was dreadfully frightened But he was beginning to hope. With hope one always feels better

When Reddy came around to that side and tried to push his way in, Little Wobblenose simply ran back Reddy's temper became worse. He tried every little opening that offered the least chance of getting far enough into that bramble-tangle to drive Little Wobblenose out for he knew that if once that little Rabbit left that bramble - tangle catching him would be easy. In places he dug furiously to get under some extra low vines and brambles. Little Wobblenose refused to be driven out. It is a wise Rabbit who knows when he is well off. Little Wobblenose was proving himself to be a wise Rabbit for the time being anyway.

At last Reddy gave up Even the hottest temper cools after a while. With a parting snarl and a promise to catch that little Rabbit later Reddy left. Little Wobblenose watched him go down an old cowpath He was a sorry sight, was Reddy Fox His coat was torn and dirty. His waistcoat was no longer white. His big plume of a tail was a sight. His face was badly scratched. And he was walking on three legs One hind foot was held up so as not to touch the ground Once he took one step with that foot and the small watcher saw him hastily lift it. Then he sat down and seemed to bite at it and lick it for a moment or two Then he moved on, disappearing in the bushes He was still going on three feet.

"I wonder what the matter is," said Little Wobblenose "I wouldn't like to walk on only three feet."

The matter was a thorn in one of the pads of that foot He got it when he was digging so furiously in that bramble-tangle Now he couldn't get hold of it with his teeth to pull it out. That was what he was trying to do when he seemed to be biting at that foot It hurt That foot was sore and it was going to be more so. Altogether Reddy was an unhappy Fox. He was paying a price for losing his temper.

In Reckoning how to set up a suit the smart declarer weighs the relative cost of the various methods available to him He does not want it to cost him two tricks to get it established if he can accomplish the same end by giving up only one trick. And he does not want to consume a card as high as a queen, to drive out a king, if he can gain the same result by playing out a smaller card like a ten or a nine.

Two declarers in a duplicate, where that same bidding was don, had the same lead against them, the spade 5, the J forcing the A. One then made the contract and the other failed. Both said later that they decided to seek four club tricks, plus two hearts, also that they reckoned, from West's bid, that he had the club K. The variation in the result came from the way that they drove out the club honor.

The losing declarer, as well as the winner, led the heart Q to the second trick and, when it was ducked by West, he switched suits Then the loser led the club Q right into the K West returned his diamond K to the A. Then the club 10 was finessed and followed by the A, which failed to drop the still-guarded J. South hopelessly gave up a trick to that card, whereupon it was impossible to get nine tricks before the defense had five.

The winning declarer, after the heart Q on the second trick, led the 4 to the heart A, and brought forth the club 9, which he finessed to the K No matter what the defense did now, the contract was secure. West returned a spade to the K, the diamond A was a dummy entry, and a finesse of the club 10 worked Now the club A and Q dropped the J, and the 6 made the game trick.

The difference in result had come because one used the club Q to knock out the K, while the other had used the 9 for that purpose considerable economy.

Try and Stop Me

"Two hundred dollars for this beautiful sedan?" demanded an outraged motorist of a second-hand dealer. "Do you realize I've owned this car eight years and never had a wreck?"

"What you mean," corrected the dealer, "is that you've owned this wreck eight years and never had a car."

Ben Huebsch, the publisher, is responsible for some of America's most monumental puns. There was the day, for instance, when Ben announced, "I am going to sneeze" "At whom," asked his partner, a long-suffering soul named Best "At-choo," said Ben And the time he disclosed, "My secretary is in love with fourteen soldiers, but she says it's platoonic"

I think you'll agree that he really went too far, though, when he called a friend on the phone and said, "If buttercups are yellow, what color are hiccups?"

"I give up," said his friend warily.

"Burple," said Ben They yanked out his phone a few minutes later.

Drive carefully tomorrow—and remember that when a grade crossing signal flashes red it means STOP!

Who says Argentina isn't imitating democracy—the number of strikers in that country has risen to 75,000.

The same sort of complacency reflected in the song, "It ain't goin' to rain no more," appears in the attitude of unconcern that follows announcement of a strike settlement.

Henry A. Wallace Speaks Again

CONFUSION created by the Thursday night speech of Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace in New York is quite understandable. It is a peculiar trait of Mr. Wallace to be confusing in whatever he has to say.

The only oddity about it this time is that his speech was read in advance by President Truman and given a presidential OK, despite the fact that it appeared to set up a different foreign policy than the one enunciated last spring by Secretary of State Byrnes, who has been assumed to be the authorized spokesman on such subjects.

Few worse things can be imagined, in the field of international relations, than that Wallace's ideas should be substituted for those of Byrnes in either domestic or foreign affairs.

Just how President Truman will wriggle out of what has developed into an embarrassing situation has not yet been disclosed—but one thing quite sure is that there should be no inclination to present the views of Henry A. Wallace as those of a majority of the American people.

'Ability to Pay' Limits Reparations

THE MERE idea of the United States advancing money to Italy to pay reparations to other Allied countries is so absurd as to appear to have required no declaration of rejection.

The attitude of European countries, however, has so consistently hinged on the assumption that the United States is an "easy mark" that some such proposal fits in with the general scheme of things.

Italy, of course, as an Axis partner, should be compelled to pay damages to the extent of ability—for many years to come—but that the United States should be asked to provide funds, credits or materials, to meet such payments is ridiculous.

As was told by a representative of the state department to the Italian economic committee, estimated cost to the United States in fighting Italy was around twenty billion dollars, and another billion has since been contributed for relief and rehabilitation work.

Now some of the Allies are asking extremely high reparations payments from Italy, while the United States is making no reparations claims against that deeply troubled country.

No conclusion can be reached other than that the United States would be expected to furnish the money, or its equivalent, for payment of reparations, and it is just as well that a frank statement of the absence of any such intention be made now—so there will be no misunderstanding of this country's intention along the line of continuing to finance Europe's unending play of power politics and "ism" experimentation.

Favor Voluntary Payment Method

A MAJORITY of city council opposes submission of a tax levy proposal as a means of providing funds to meet the cost of garbage collection, thus deciding in favor of retaining the present fee system of payment by voluntary patrons of this service.

The problem thus remains the same—how to induce all residents of the city to have their garbage collected and properly disposed of, instead of continuing to allow some of them to create a nuisance by throwing garbage into yards, alleys, or along rural roads.

An increase in fees for garbage collection appears unavoidable, if this service is to be self-sustaining, and there will also be justification for the suggested separation of ash and trash collection, with a reasonable additional charge.

All that is now needed, apparently, is determination of fair rates for these services, so that income may meet outlay for equipment, maintenance and wages.

Get Auto Driver's License Now

NO MATTER how strongly motorists are urged to get their new driver's license early—some of them will and some of them won't . . . just as heretofore.

So there's no use in doing more than say that licenses are now available at offices of the Richland County Automobile club, Elks building, and that those who get theirs some day next week will avoid being caught in the last-minute rush. Monday, September 30 is the final day for legal use of present license—and don't say you weren't told.

Foresees Lower Food Prices

AT A TIME when the high cost of food is probably consuming more conversation hours than harried housewives have ever before devoted to one topic, a man has had the courage to stand in front of an audience and declare that food prices are coming down.

The cheerful forecaster is Prof. O. B. Jesness, of the University of Minnesota, an expert on agricultural economics. He had no magic formula—he simply explains that favorable crop conditions all over the world are levelling of shortages. As the need to ship vast quantities of food overseas declines, more food will be available for use in this country, and as the scarcity vanishes, prices will come down.

Only hitch to his story is that he says farm costs probably will not come down as fast, which will leave the farmer in the middle.

Detroit boasts of many things, so it is quite natural for that city's News to comment: "The divorce courts of Detroit break all records for a day's output. So much for fears that we have lost the old know-how in on-the-line production."

Harry Wade suggests: "If Nature had intended that exclamation points be strewn through the ringing editorial, it would have included one on the standard typewriter."

Analysis reveals that the outcome of Maine's recent election was only a Republican "victory," not a "landslide," which seems rather encouraging to the Democrats.

American chess players are engaged in another match with Russian experts—but there seems little likelihood of chess becoming "the great American game."

Reorganization of Congress May Be Stymied, Except Salary Raise

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON—A little plot has been pieced together since congress went away which should be called to the attention of the voters. They may be able to do something about it between now and the November elections.

It has come to light in various public and private statements of members themselves.

The plot is to kill off one of the most constructive measures that congress adopted at its otherwise none too encouraging recent session. That was the act to reform its own machinery and procedures for a more efficient body, more responsive to the public will—the Monroney-La Follette congressional reorganization measure.

The act itself is a mandate. But it still has to be put into effect.

The means which would be used to nullify it are embodied in the right of each congress to make its own rules. Rules are adopted at the beginning of each congress, usually a pro-forma matter.

Among other things, the congressional reform plan envisages the reduction of committees in both house and senate by nearly half, through consolidations. This could be voided merely by their going ahead and providing for committees as they existed previously. Thus also could other reform proposals be ditched.

The plot began to appear soon after congress adjourned. Members began suggesting the plan be changed "just a little" here and there. The proposed changes, added up, would kill off the whole reorganization plan.

There is some evidence now that there was a good deal of lip service when congress adopted the reform bill at the tag-end of the last session. Its success was a surprise, though some compromises had to be accepted as the price of enactment.

The bill encroaches on personal ambitions for preference and prestige since it would deprive some members of committeechairmanships. These members don't like to admit it publicly but undoubtedly some of them, if not all, would be happy to see the whole scheme discarded.

The essence of the plot is to eliminate all parts of the reform plan that would touch on cherished prerogatives and leave only the pay increase and retirement pension.

Members of congress should have more pay and a pension system. But these should go along with other reforms and not be singled out. If they alone survived after the great pretense that congress has made at reforming itself, there is no doubt that public reaction would be bad—and it should be.

This is pointed out because the congressional pay increase already has provoked demagogic attacks in primary campaigns from candidates seeking the seats of incumbents. Undoubtedly this will continue in the election campaigns. This confuses the overall issue of congressional reform.

Some hypocrisy is involved. One candidate, for example, attacked an incumbent because of his support of the plan, singling out the salary increase, and confessed privately he hoped the bill would go through because he wanted the salary increase.

Local groups active on behalf of good and more eficient government can be effective by seeking to tie down candidates of both parties to support the complete reform bill as it was enacted.

They also can be helpful in clearing up the minds of voters where there is a demagogic use of the salary increase.

This reform act applies to congress. But it is of vital interest to every citizen because it will give him a congress that can represent him better and more efficiently. It also holds promise of providing party responsibility which is so sadly lacking now.

It is not a perfect measure, and should be considered as only a beginning, but it is most essential when representative democratic government is under test as it is now.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, Sept. 14, 1926.

Total public school enrollment of 5,452 was reported by Superintendent Helter.

Golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Parsons, 353 West Fourth street.

Mrs. Henry Bossler, 83, died at her home, 148 Blymyer avenue.

Season's production of 3,035 bushels of grain was reported by county home.

Homer D. Hunt was elected president of Mansfield Real Estate board, at meeting held at Elk's grill.

Party was given for Richard Lane, Buckingham street, on his 14th birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Susan Berry, 117 West Third street, was injured when struck by auto at corner of Main street and Park avenue west.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

At the battles of South Mountain, which took place on September 14, 1862, the Confederates were repulsed at Turner's and Crampton's Gaps.

Dave Boone Says:

A TRUCK DRIVER'S lot is no bed of roses. Whatever he gets, he gets it the hard way and nobody begrudges him more money. What disturbs the public is the way he and his leaders around New York go about getting more.

The most important thing to labor, even if you wouldn't think so these days, is public support and good will. They need these on their side. Something is all wrong with the leadership or with many of the men when they permit any course that kicks the public around.

* * *

It seems as if the truckmen, having a good-enough cause, went out of their way to rub the public the wrong way. Labor doesn't have to do that, and it would benefit more if it adopted a use-no-hooks policy.

Listen World!

Elsie Asks, "Are YOU a Female Souse?"

By ELSIE ROBINSON

DR. ROBERT V. SELIGER, a member of the psychiatric staff of Johns Hopkins Hospital, has certainly started something. In the September issue of the Woman's Home Companion he states without any apologies that "four out of ten alcoholics now are women."

Dr. Seliger blames it on the "chaotic era in which we live."

Says he — "Today's woman is living in the age of Superman but she still has the brain and nervous system of her grandmother. All mental and emotional disorders nowadays are evidence, as well as her increasing alcoholism."

Which of course is a neat "out" for all female guzzlers. They need merely point to our atomic age as the source of their hiccups.

As a matter of fact, there's another reason for female alcoholism which the wise Dr. Seliger has probably been too polite to point out.

Modern woman may have inherited the brain and nervous system of her grandmother but she has also inherited something much more potent—namely, grandmother's love of excitement.

Tradition to the contrary, women have always been the hell-bent sex.

As a daughter of western pioneers with a tidy taste for pioneering myself I can assure you that women were far from the meek or negligible sex in the Good Old Days. The men might and did congregate at the livery stable or back of the drug store and chew the fat. But when some Real Action was wanted in the form of domestic or civil improvement, you can bet your last nickel that some little blonde started it. Or maybe a brunette. Behind every go-getting male there was a human tornado in skirts.

Nor have I seen any great change in this routine in my 63 years of habitation on this earth. The Little Girls are still shoving the Big Boys around.

Nor are they doing it solely for the betterment of the race. The plain truth is, they are doing it because Women Like to Start Things.

Women crave excitement as a boa constrictor craves rabbits. It is, to them, a basic necessity. Sometimes this craving results in very admirable deeds. Quite as often the lovely ladies just raise hell.

In short, women are and always have been the reckless sex. The ballot didn't change them—it simply gave them a wider opportunity to Be Themselves. Women—even very nice and gracious women—love to kick conventionality in its teeth. They will do things, for the sheer thrill of it, which the far more conventional male would never venture.

And that, I believe, is why four out of ten alcoholics are women today. They are doing what they shouldn't and are having a swell time at it. The very fact that their little game is highly dangerous merely goads them on to further excesses. Every drinking woman believes firmly in that ancient adage—"It can't happen to me."

But alcoholism can and does happen to women—and there's nothing comic about it. And the effect is apt to be infinitely more demoralizing to the home and society than the sprees of any male souse.

I am not a prohibitionist nor a prude. I have taken many a drink and liked them. Some I took to increase my voltage when all the wires seemed down. Some I swallowed to dislodge an even larger and more bitter lump in my throat and some I took just because I wanted to. But I have never found that alcohol paid either as an escape or a stimulant or an indoor sport.

At which point I may remark that the local cocktail bars so enthusiastically patronized by Us Gals give me a severe pain in the neck. If a woman must know the occasional exhiliration of a cocktail, let her do it with some sense of dignity and a degree of privacy.

The current spectacle of female barflies perched rump to rump is one of our most dismal phenomena. If the girls could see themselves from the rear quite a few of them would climb on the water wagon for keeps.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Creeping Paralysis Hits Nation As Strikes Continue to Plague

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE nation, after a summer's respite from the jitters, again underwent a creeping paralysis as potent as any spread by the critical steel, coal and railway tieups last spring. It was a mental as well as a physical block.

One prime factor was a maritime strike that stalled shipping on three coasts and slowly throttled industry by cutting off supplies. Housewives had to stand in line for meat again and in many cities be content with fish or fowl. Inflation was still on the march; housing, cars and many consumer goods were still hard to get. An alarming slump hit the stock market.

A strike of 25,000 New York City truckmen forced factories to close and squeezed the food supply of the world's biggest city, already hampered by the shipping strike.

Against Public Welfare.

In Pittsburgh, a court order ended, at least temporarily, a strike of electric power workers which threatened to black out the steel capital. The injunction, directed against company and union, forebade any activity "actively imperilling the lives, property, health or welfare of citizens."

As last spring, strikes by a comparatively few thousand workers in key industries reached the stage where they affected millions of innocent bystanders.

The maritime strike, however, was not against employers but against the Wage Stabilization Board which ruled pay increases previously negotiated by ship operators and two AFL unions "inflationary" and ordered them cut.

At a WSB rehearing in Washington, the only witness was a representative of shipowners who urged the board to reverse itself.

Spreading Paralysis.

Picket lines of 90,000 striking AFL seamen were respected by more than 400,000 other AFL and CIO seamen, stevedores, teamsters and other maritime workers. Nearly 2,500 oceangoing vessels were tied up at piers along the east, west and gulf coasts. UNRRA shipments to faminine areas abroad were halted. More than 5,000 loaded freight cars clogged harbor rail terminals.

The paralysis spread inland swiftly. Rail lines placed embargoes on all freight headed for strike-bound ports. Steel, flour and other industrial manufacturers faced slowdowns with stoppage of export business. The postmaster general in Washington ordered inland ports to impound mail for overseas to prevent piling up at storage facilities in New York, New Orleans and San Francisco.

At Home

Uneasy Stock Market.

Ten days ago Wall Street temporarily went bearish. Stocks dropped 1 to 17 points. Even key issues slumped: du Pont 17 points, U. S. Steel 6. When the gong closed the day's trading, overwhelmed tickers were able to catch up and record a 2,900,000-share day. Next day some losses were recouped and by the weekend much of the $6,000,000,000 slump in value of the listed stocks had been recovered.

Liquidation hit the market again a week later, forcing big industrial issues down 2 to 12 points. The averages tumbled under the low of the first break. In many instances the declines were more severe than a week previous. The turnover in the five hours of trading totaled 2,800,000 shares.

On several days, the market showed strong signs of recovery. Stock market analysts were puzzled by the gyrations.

Science on the March.

An unprecedented array of atoms, rockets, radio waves and chemical reagents whizzed in the nation's headlines leaving the lay reader with a dazzling, rather terrifying, idea of the paramount role of science in the world just-around-the-corner. The spotlight was on Chicago where more than 8,000 members of the American Chemical Society heard nearly 800 treatises, many of them on subjects cleared from wartime secrecy.

Atomic energy, of course, held the center of the stage. Radiation chemistry and fluorine chemistry, two fields opened by the Manhattan District project, were the subject of special three-day symposiums.

Scientists attached to the president's and the chief of staff's evaluation boards lifted the lid on some aspects of the Bikini tests.

Be It Ever So Humble.

Housing is a key postwar problem in every nation. Although the United States was not devastated by war, its housing program too, is snarled by red tape, bottlenecks and rising costs. Veterans and their families are the chief sufferers.

In England people who couldn't or wouldn't wait for the Labor government's four-year plan to put a roof over their heads began a "squatters" invasion. They moved en masse into any available vacant premises—army huts, half-finished houses, government buildings, luxury flats.

Inspired by British Communists, the squatters number more than 12,000 and their number is growing every day.

Abroad

Germany's Future.

The struggle for control of Germany which, it has been said, means control of Europe is the hard core of the east-west differences moving week by week nearer a climax. Whatever the disputes over boundaries in Italy, Yugoslavia, Greece, Bulgaria and Turkey, they are secondary to the clashes on Germany, when Big Four diplomats eventually get around to discussing those issues face to face.

The Potsdam agreement reached more than a year ago decreed Big Four cooperation in guiding Germany to democratic independence. That has not been realized, primarily because Russia sealed off its occupation zone and France demanded partition of the industrial Ruhr and Saar valleys.

Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov's speech July 10 outlined the Soviet plan for Germany—a plan paving the way for Communist domination.

At Stuttgart, Secretary of State James F. Byrnes set forth the American plan for Germany.

Byrnes proposed early establishment by Germans of a provisional central government to run the Reich under Allied control and prepare a constitution for self government.

A World Problem.

All Palestine was under a virtual state of siege and strict curfew as a wave of terrorism spread over the Holy Land simultaneously with the opening of the Palestine conference in London, boycotted by both Palestine Jews and Arabs.

More than a third of Palestine's Jewish population was placed under strict house arrest for a day as 8,000 British Tommies poured into Tel Aviv to assist police in making a door-to-door search in the all-Jewish city after a series of bombings and explosiins.

British authorities reported the Palestine railway had been cut in 50 places, the flow of oil to the port of Haifa disrupted. A series of explosions rocked the diamond industry town of Nathanya, midway between Tel Aviv and Haifa.

Over the Hill to Egypt.

Nine-year-old King Simeon II, blue-eyed schoolboy king of Bulgaria for the last three years, became the latest of Europe's dwindling royalty to lose his throne.

The 69-year-old rule of the House of Coburg, during which Bulgaria lost three wars and suffered countless casualties, ended with last Sunday's plebiscite when voters favored a republic 3,801,160 to 171,000.

Simeon who speaks five languages, helped his mother pack for exile. He was glad, he said, that he soon would see his grandfather, former King Victor Emanuel of Italy, and many other relatives in Egypt, traditional refuge for exiled monarchs.

Farmer's Diary: "Effects of the Drouth."

THE drouth of early autumn is hurting the corn and soybeans. Even by nine in the morning, the slight dew has vanished, and corn blades roll like cigar leaves while near the base of every stalk it is dry and brittle, with a dead feel as though it had been cut and shocked for a long time.

With every passing day, the withering is more apparent—some lengthy ears hang down of their own weight, as if the grain had ripened. At the top of such ears I found every cob had shriveled kernels for several inches—much of the natural moisture gone. The tassels had a brash lifeless feel—the soil beneath is light and dusty, with normal moisture lacking to a depth of three or four inches. Little whirlwinds whistle across the field and send whirling dust-clouds rapidly along the lowlands, depositing them upon the greenery of the nearest wooded slopes, so that the vivid colors, even there, are masked with gray and drab.

Dogwood berries are turning scarlet. Hazels have a yellow greenish cast with ripening clusters of oily nuts that weight each slender branch until its drooping terminal looks downward to the earth. The wild cherry has only a few fruits left on each flexible raceme, and they are drying on the stem, the puckered outer skin clinging to the seed.

The bittersweet leans on the other shrubs to flaunt lovely yellow berries bursting open to show rich orange and red tints. Along the woodland paths the hickories, maples and tulip poplars have cast their light and colored leaves. Gum trees are red.

"If this drouth keeps up, there won't be much maple syrup next spring," remarked a farmer who owns a sugar grove.

"Why not?" I asked him.

"The sap-carrying part of every tree is in the layer just beneath the bark. That grows new every year—makes those rings you see on the stump when a tree is cut. Dry weather skimps the size of those layers of cells—makes a big flow impossible. Every time there's a drouth it shows in the tree rings . . . if you don't think so, study stumps sometime. Fall drouth makes a poor maple syrup season, every time!"

Timely Editorial

Mother Eisenhower.

Surely no mother ever found greater satisfactions of the spirit than Ida Stover Eisenhower must have realized in her boys. That she was spared to the ripe age of 84 to see her hopes for them so bountifully fulfilled was a blessing.

The family name is indelibly written into history in the military feats of one of them. Fame cast its strongest light upon that one; but the essentials of character thus revealed, say those who know the others, are common to them all. They are good and solid men, open and straightforward, and fortunate in their heritage of sound intelligences mated to integrity of mind and purpose. There are few tasks as arduous as the competent bringing-up of a houseful of active boys. And none so rich in rewards, if they turn out as well as did the children of the Grand Old Lady who has just passed on.—Detroit News.

REPORT SPLIT IN PRESIDENT CABINET NEAR

policy on a sound American basis which rejects dictatorship by anybody, which is neither hostile or subservient to any other power on earth, and which defends human rights and fundamental freedom," Vandenberg said.

"But the situation equally requires unity within the administration itself. We can only cooperate with one secretary of state at a time."

Inquiries in Paris as to whether Byrnes had telephoned President Truman to determine whether the speech heralded a change in United States foreign policy received this reply from an American delegation spokesman in Paris.

"Any announcement of Mr. Byrnes' telephone conversation with the president will have to come from the White House."

Russians Jubilant.

There was no doubt that Wallace's speech hit the American delegation like a thunderbolt yesterday, but it seemed unlikely that Byrnes would change the delegation's policy without specific instructions from Mr. Truman.

Paris reported that Russian circles at the peace conference made no attempt to conceal their jubilance over the Wallace speech but seemed puzzled as to how such an apparent disagreement within the U. S. government over foreign policy could be permitted to come into the open in a public speech by a member of the government.

'Faring Two Ways.'

From Senator Taft (R-Ohio) and Rep. Clarence Brown (R-Ohio) came comments sounding one common note—that, by approving Wallace's talk in advance, Mr. Truman had undermined Byrnes' position at the Paris conference.

Brown said in a statement that Mr. Truman was "trying to face in two directions." The Ohio representative is directing the GOP congressional campaign.

Taft said in a statement that Mr. Truman was appealing, through Wallace, "for the support of the PAC (Political Action Committee) and the Communists in the November election by advocating a milder policy towards Communism and a less friendly attitude toward England."

Inez Robb, Noted Reporter Drops In for Malabar Visit

intangible expressions, but not one person I interviewed knew the right answer any more than I."

Right here the gracious lady to whom a session with a president or king is all in the day's work took time out to explain the mechanics of such reporting.

"I have covered the meetings of the United Nations and I believe I was the only reporter there who thoroughly enjoyed it. It was a great show of great intellects and besides I'm concerned about our future," Mrs. Robb elaborated. She looks forward to joining the INS staff that will sit in on the general assembly and security council.

Queried as to her favorites among the "big names" she has interviewed, Mrs. Robb quickly named late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and the late Wendell Willkie.

"Those men were fascinating, full of good humor and quick wit. They were the cooperative kind that any reporter likes to meet." She mentioned the name of Bernard Baruch, the man behind the scenes in Washington where Mrs. Robb does many stories, as another similar personality.

Among the many important assignments that Mrs. Robb has had in the years since she started her career as a cub reporter in Boise, Idaho, are: the wedding of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, his inauguration as governor of the Bahamas at Nassau, accompanying the special train of King George and Queen Elizabeth when they toured the United States and Canada in 1939, post war trips through many of the overrun countries, visits to many of the fighting fronts during the war years when her husband's military service freed her from the household duties of which she is proud.

"We have lived in the same seven-room Fifth Avenue apartment for 15 years. We love our home and of course, there's no chance of moving now anyway," she added laughingly, "for the housing situation is bad everywhere." Housing is another of the many subjects to which Mrs. Robb's writing talents have been directed.

"I have written about every kind of story at some time or other. I can say truthfully I've enjoyed them, too, with murder yarns and crime stories counted out. I find no fun or pleasure in writing that kind of thing."

"Helping the Duke of Windsor select a windbreaker in a Miami Sears, Roebuck store was a 'tops' of some kind or other in my newspaper career, I suppose. When the Duke called to me to determine which of two coats had the better action back, and I realized I didn't know what an action back was, I mustered my womanly tact to choose the one I thought he liked best. It cost $5.95."

Here Mrs. Robb explained that she had no acquaintance with action backs or any such sports features for she doesn't enjoy either active or spectator sports. She likes good music, the theater, and reading of all kinds except film magazines.

Pondering the long list of national and international figures and situations about which Mrs. Robb has written prompted the question: "Do you ever cover any unimportant stories or talk to the lesser lights of this world?"

"I certainly do," came the answer. "They are the most difficult. Their station in life is so insecure that they feel they must act superior to hold the public eye. The truly great are gracious, cooperative and as eager to give you a story as you are to get one."

I think Mrs. Robb is great.

Rams Open Campaign Tonight

By BRUCE M'GINTY

Mansfield Madison inaugurates its 1946 gridiron campaign tonight under the lights at Ram field by meeting New London at 8 o'clock.

The Rams-'Cats contest is the only game in this vicinity tonight and Coach Jeff DeHaven expects an over-capacity crowd.

In a short session yesterday DeHaven put his team through a spirited signal drill, but in order to avoid possible injuries, no scrimmage was held.

DeHaven, expecting to take advantage of the passing ability of Halfbacks Herb Eldridge, who was a stellar guard on the 1945 eleven, and Dick Brown, midget speedster, also held a forward passing drill.

Jack Herr, two-year ace ground gainer, will handle kickoff and punting duties along with attempted conversions, DeHaven said. Brown and Herr will handle most of the running assignments from the Rams' single-wing backfield formation behind a balanced line.

Ed Thomas and Eldon Pritchard will be on the receiving end of most of the Madison passes.

New London beat the Rams 13 to 6 in 1943, 13 to 12 in '44 and 6 to 0 last season and the Rams are confident that this is the year to beat the 'Cats.

Kay Gordy and "Bobo" Belmer are New London's two most consistent ground gainers.

Yesterday Madison had a pep rally, the squad was introduced and DeHaven reviewed the opening games against the New London aggregation for the past three years.

Jack Cleckner, captain, gave a short talk.

The high school band played several school songs. Fred Durig, drum major, introduced the new drum majorettes in their new green and white uniforms. They are Marjorie Hoover, Lois Miller, Emily Eichinger, Donna Thomas, Marjorie Belt and Helen Lehnhart.

Officials for tonight's game will be Jack Robeson, Mt. Vernon; Kenneth Gallant, Bucyrus, and A. C. Grant, Loudonville. Henry Sheets, coach at East Mansfield, is the timekeeper.

Shelby Drops Seasonal Opener To Strong New Philadelphia 11

NEW PHILADELPHIA—Friday Sept 13 proved unlucky for the Shelby Whippets as they made their debut under Coach Al Fendrick by dropping a 21-7 decision to a strong New Philadelphia eleven here last night

The Whippets were unable to cross the Quakers' goal line until the final period Jim Reed took a lateral from Bill Thompson on the New Philadelphia 28 to tally the visitors' lone touchdown Stanton Jones kicked the extra point

Orval Stephens broke away for 48 yards in the opening stanza and Carlton Long bucked over from the two-yard line in the second heat for the Quakers' first scores.

After Shelby's count, the Quakers roared back to score on Long's 15-yard aerial to Eugene Meese. The pass came on the fourth down after Shelby had throttled the Quakers' running attack. Paul Phipps place-kicked all three New Philadelphia extra points.

Approximately 6,000 fans witnessed the first meeting between the two clubs.

Shelby made only three first downs to 12 for New Philadelphia. The Whippets lost 45 yards on rule infractions while the Quakers were penalized 60 yards

RED SOX BACK INTO PENNANT, BEAT INDIANS

By CARL LUNDQUIST

NEW YORK — The St. Louis Cardinals thought they had the pennant all wrapped up nicely, but the string came loose on the package so the Brooklyn Dodgers were back in the melee today trying to grab the prize parcel for themselves.

And it looked once again as if they might get the job done.

What happens today at Ebbets field, of course, will tell the story, because this is the payoff game as the teams square off for their final meeting of the 1946 season.

The Cardinals, still a game and a half in front, missed their big opportunity yesterday when the Dodgers put across four runs in the first inning, then made the lead stand up for a 4 to 3 victory.

Had St. Louis won that game, the margin over the Dodgers would have been 3½ games, much too great a gap to overcome at this late stage of the race without the help of extenuating circumstances.

The Dodgers started a lefty, rookie Joe Hatten, and he came through in spite of the fact that he had to have help from Kirby Higbe.

Both managers chose southpaws for the fateful finale. Harry Brecheen, with two wins and a loss over the Dodgers was the Cardinal nominee while tiny Vic Lombardi, who has dropped three straight to St. Louis, will go for Brooklyn.

The Red Sox, after dropping six straight games, came through with a 1 to 0 victory on Ted Williams' homer and Tex Hughson's three-hit pitching to clinch the American league pennant at Cleveland.

The Tigers, last team with a chance of catching the Red Sox, faded out mathematically by dropping a 5 to 4 decision to the Yankees at Detroit who were playing under their third manager of the year, Coach Johnny Neun. He took over the reins when Bill Dickey said he was through and left in a hurry for his home in Little Rock, Ark.

The Browns defeated the Senators at St. Louis, 7 to 0, as Jack Kramer hurled his 13th victory and the White Sox took two from the Athletics at Chicago, 3 to 1 behind Orval Grove and 4 to 2 with Frank Papish doing the hurling.

The Pirates moved within a game of the sixth place Phillies by winning two from the Braves at Boston, 4 to 2 in 14 innings behind Lefty Fritz Ostermueller and 10 to 1 as Edson Bahr coasted to a five-hit decision.

Joe Beggs of the Reds, though touched for 11 hits, beat the Giants at New York, 4 to 1, while the Phils topped the visiting Chicago Cubs, 4 to 1, as Charley Schanz pitched a seven-hit victory.

Regula on Mound For Tiger Nine

Mansfield Tiger baseballers were scheduled to play the Ohio State Reformatory nine this afternoon on the O. S. R diamond.

Jim Regula and Chug Floro formed the Tigers battery as they went after their 13th victory in 21 games. Coach Jimmy Lymper's nine travels to West Salem tomorrow afternoon and concludes its season next Sunday against Creston.

Tygers Score Win Over Marion In Opener

side penalty put the ball on the one-yard line.

Horvath went over on the first play but Ross Frisbee's kick was wide.

Cline intercepted a Rae pass on the 35 to set the stage for the second score.

Two line plays and a penalty moved the ball to the Marion 22 but the first of Mansfield's plethora of rule infractions put the pigskin back on the 27. Horvath made 19 yards on two smashes and Majors contributed a fancy bit of stepping for the second counter. Frisbee split the uprights.

Majors flagged a Rae aerial late in the second canto on the Tyger 32-yard line and the Bengals started goalward with a rush. Horvath went off-guard for five and Majors made twenty on two dashes. Horvath went 11 yards to the Harding 30 and Majors took a lateral from Cline and got to the 14.

Majors picked up three and Horvath went the final 11 yards on a quick opener from the T. Frisbee's kick was wide.

Marion tried to pass from its own 18 in the third period but Cline intercepted on the 23 and slid to the 10. Mansfield lost a yard on the first play but Horvath picked up five and then scored from the six after taking a lateral from Majors. Nick Gagich added the 26th point.

The Prexies started their long drive after Herb Phillians returned Cline's kickoff to the forty. In 17-plays, passing and running, Marion moved to the Mansfield two. Coss picked up 40-inches on two tries at the rock-ribbed Tyger forwards but Rae slipped over from the one on a sneak.

Zeisler kicked off out-of-bounds on the 34 and Cline went to the 35 as the quarter ended. Majors went off-tackle for 12 and McKee got 18 on a reverse. Cline got away for 25 but a penalty nullified the play and put the Tygers back on the 43.

McKee then got 25 and Cline 16 to put the pill on the two. McKee lost one on a sweep and Cline handed the ball to Horvath on another quick-opener and the Tyger full scored. Frisbee's kick was good.

Bob Rondy, sub guard, flagged a Rae pass and returned 55-yards to the Marion 25 but the attack petered out on the 16.

Rae passed to Brown for nine-yards and a Coss aerial was short. Peadon caught Rae's pass for 14-yards and Mansfield was penalized to the 44. The Presidents then uncorked the 56-yard touchdown play Rae to Coss to Peadon. Coss counted the 13th point on a plunge.

Browns Stop Rockets, 20-6

CHICAGO—(INS)—Better timing and smoother execution of plays today were credited as the winning factors for the Cleveland Browns' 20 to 6 triumph over the Chicago Rockets on Soldiers' field.

The largest crowd ever to see a professional football game in Chicago, 51,962 spectators, saw the opening of the All-America conference in Chicago last night.

They saw the Browns defeat the Rockets on two long runs and two field goals.

They also saw the rugged Cleveland line do an effective job in stopping the touchdown scampers of Elroy (Crazy Legs) Hirsch. Hirsch was injured in the third quarter while making a tackle and was forced to withdraw.

* * *

The Browns smashed over for their first touchdown in the first quarter when Marion Motley, bruising fullback, carried the ball over from the 20-yard Rocket stripe.

LARGE PRIZE LIST SET FOR TOURNEY

Seventy-six club swingers competing in the annual Richland county golf tournament on the Westbrook Country club links tomorrow will be shooting for the largest prize list ever awarded in Mansfield amateur competition.

Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the 1946 meet, have rounded up 31 prizes totaling over $800. Awards will be presented to winners after the competition tomorrow by Bob Moorhead, tournament general chairman.

The prizes were purchased on money left over from entry fees and on donations from Mansfield merchants.

Champion of the 1946 tourney gets a 32-inch gold plated trophy and a $100 wrist watch with the runnerup getting an 18-inch trophy and a floor model radio.

All former champs will be in the field which tees off tomorrow starting at 8 a. m. Two 18-hole medal-play rounds are scheduled, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon.

Joe Mayer, who has won the tournament five times, rates as one of the favorites. Frank Jocha copped the crown in 1945. Al Hager is the other former champion.

The public is invited.

Winter golf rules will be followed and the ball may be teed up with the club only and only in the fairway of the hole being played. Participants can change their ball on the green and must always mark the ball with a coin or tee.

Players not on the tee at the announced starting times will automatically be disqualified. The pine trees are not hazards and if they prevent a swing or are in the line of flight to the pin the ball may be moved without a penalty.

All players have been requested to bring their own caddies and register on arrival.

Crestline Tops Gilead

MT. GILEAD—Before the largest crowd ever to see a football game at Mt. Gilead, Crestline defeated Coach Robert Blose's eleven, 8 to 0. Fifteen-hundred persons withered the first night game in the history of the school.

The first score came in the second period when Mt. Gilead fumbled the ball behind their own goal line. Crestline broke through to smother the play and score two points on a safety.

Crestline counted again in the fourth quarter when Wayne Rhodus intercepted a Mt. Gilead pass and returned 65 yards for a touchdown. The try for extra point failed.

Coach Merle Hutson's squad piled up eleven first downs while Mt. Gilead got eight.

GRAND JURY TO GET 12 CASES

Two Drunk Driving Charges On Criminal Docket.

MILLERSBURG—Twelve cases are on the criminal docket for consideration by the grand jury when it convenes Monday. Four of them are in connection with theft of ginseng, and two are for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Cases and defendant in each and their charge are: State vs. Lane Cave, operating a motor vehicle while under influence of alcohol; State vs. Rabe, breaking and entering; State vs. Emmett Clark, assault and battery; State vs. Logan Gallion, operating motor vehicle while under influence of alcohol; State vs. Ed Maxwell, hit-skip driving, and State vs. George Colbert, taking and operating a motor vehicle without owner's consent.

Four cases for theft of ginseng are: Raymond, Harry and Donald Holderbaum, and Otto Schodorf.

Raymnod Miller, Holmes county prosecutor, said the grand jury will also investigate the alleged irregularities of former Sheriff Harry R. Weiss in connection with a reported shortage of approximately $1,344 as the result of a recent examination by State Examiner J. H. Bartell.

"But we weren't set out in the street," she added proudly. "We moved ourselves out. Our furniture and bedding is stored in a neighbor's garage.

"If we could only get some place to live so that when Charles comes, he'll have a home again."

Today and Tomorrow

MR. MOLOTOV does not disagree with Mr. Byrnes that in principle Germany should be administered as an economic unit under a central German government, which can "provide the necessary means to pay for approved imports."

A central government located in Berlin and sovereign over the whole of Germany is exactly what the Russian policy calls for. It is the kind of government which suits the centralized Communist party and the German militarists and bureaucrats, who will be no more squeamish than were Hitler and Ribbentrop, in making a deal with Mr. Molotov.

That is why Mr. Molotov is so vehemently opposed to the federalization of Germany. It would make it so much more difficult to control Germany from Berlin.

HE MUST BE very much pleased to find that Mr. Byrnes has now in fact, though not in name, abandoned the federal solution, which had such a promising start in the American zone. For it was against the federal solution that Mr. Molotov inveighed in his statement last July. He knew that a federal Germany, where political power was not monopolized by Berlin, was a Germany which could least easily be captured by the Communist party, which could least easily be bribed and coerced into partnership with the Soviet Union.

In conceding this vital point to the Russians, and in appeasing the German nationalists, who, from Bismarck to Hitler, have hated the idea of a decentralized Germany, Mr. Byrnes has not increased his chances of a better economic arrangement between the Soviet zone and the British-American zones. For what he has done is to relax the hold of the western powers on the industrial centers of Germany by offering to turn them over to a central government in Berlin.

THIS CENTRAL government located in the Russian zone, is bound to be less amiable to British and American influence than would be local state governments in the British and American zones.

The proposal, if it were adopted, is therefore much more likely to give the Russians a hold upon the Ruhr and western Germany than it is to give us influence in eastern Germany.

Moreover, now that the offer has been made on American authority to let Berlin be sovereign again in western Germany, all Germans in the western zones are on notice that their own personal future and their private interests are in jeopardy if they co-operate in working for states' rights and a decentralized Germany.

* * *

WHILE MR. BYRNES is not going to get immediately the economic unification which he wants, he will get a kind of a unification later on, when the situation, which the Russians have been preparing, has matured. But he will get the unification of Germany on terms he does not want—namely, under a Berlin government, which is subservient to, and in cahoots with Moscow.

ROMANIA GIVES RUSSIA GOODS WORTH BILLION

Enforced Delivery Disclosed By Delegates to Paris Peace Conference.

PARIS —(INS)— Delegates to the Paris peace conference disclosed today that Romania already has supplied to Russia enforced delivery of goods estimated at a billion dollars.

The revelation was made at the same time the Romanian government declined to say what total of assets had been transferred to the Soviets under the armistice.

United States and British delegates pressed the Romanians for further specific details on the basis of reports that Soviet removals of property had been stripping Romania of approximately 60 per cent of government budgetary expenses since the armistice.

Submitting a long-requested memorandum to the Balkan economic commission, the Romanian delegation circumvented direct answers to written questions submitted by the American, British and French delegations by resorting to evasions and excuses.

The discussions began as American Secretary of State James F. Byrnes worked to patch up the peace conference rift caused by the sudden walkout from deliberations of the Bulgarian political commission by the White Russian chairman and Slav delegates.

Byrnes, as president of the conference, decided after consultation with the secretary general not to make an issue of the case in which Chairman K. V. Kisselev, of White Russia, arbitrarily adjourned the committee meeting and the Slav delegations walked out in a group.

The American statesman was said to have decided to attempt to allay the situation through some sort of compromise.

24 More Homes In Sight for War Vets In Mansfield Area

Mansfield's housing picture took on a brighter hue today with one contractor issued permits for six new houses and another reporting five other homes completed in the Coolridge Heights area.

The six building permits went to Budget Homes, Inc., to construct six four-room frame houses at 292, 296, 300, 304, 308, and 312 Remy avenue. Cost of each dwelling was listed as $7,500.

Meanwhile Clarence Connor and son, Mansfield realtors, have completed construction of five homes in Coolridge Heights and have 13 more scheduled for completion within 60 to 90 days.

On this project alone 18 ex-GI's will find it possible to have the homes they've been dreaming about.

More homes are planned as quickly as priorities, materials, and workmen can be obtained, Clarence Connor, who supervises the building of the homes, said.

The homes, which sell for $7,600 (a few with dormers sell for $200 more), are five-room, frame houses, fully insulated, with hardwood floors, full basements, and automatic gas heat. The attic can be finished into one or two more rooms. The sale price includes grading of the lot.

A building permit was issued to W. L. Miller, 490 Park avenue west, to remodel the basement at his residence by installing a partition for a business room and opening an entrance. The cost was estimated at $700.

CORN CROP CUT BY DRY AUGUST

Production Still Expected to Exceed Last Year.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Cool, dry weather in late August led the Ohio cooperative crop reporting service today to predict a 185,612,000-bushel corn yield for the state, a slight reduction from earlier forecasts.

The 1946 corn crop still was expected to surpass last year's yield of 176,913,000 bushels, the service said.

Southwestern Ohio showed the best yield prospects as of Sept. 1, with the northern third having the poorest outlook, the report said. Some corn will not ripen properly unless killing frosts are late.

Soybean production was estimated at 18,069,000 bushels, compared with 20,072,000 last year.

The wheat crop was placed at 52,735,000 bushels (60,993,000 last year), oats 67,050,000 (53,210,000); barley 540,000 (630,000); rye 360,000 (558,000), and buckwheat 324,000 (306,000).

Egg production during August totaled 189 million, compared with 200 million eggs in August, 1945.

Sugar Price Up 2 Cents a Pound

WASHINGTON—(INS)—OPA today tacked an estimated 200 million dollars additional on consumers' annual food bills by boosting sugar prices two cents a pound and prepared to increase substantially the prices of Ford automobiles.

An OPA spokesman said a plan was under study to limit the amount of meat restaurants may buy. He warned that prices of canned fruits, now free of OPA controls, probably would rise to reflect the sugar increase. He said OPA expected no jump in candy or soft drink prices but thought frozen fruit, cake and ice cream prices might rise.

OPA explained that the auto price boost was necessary to bring the Ford Motor company's earnings to their pre-war level.

A Mansfield reformatory escaper re-captured near Circleville, is being returned here today to face charges of operating a Mansfield resident's car without his consent, police reported today.

The escaper, James R. Travis, 21, of Columbus, and Robert L. Hill, 18, of Circleville, another OSR inmate, escaped from the reformatory dairy barn early Thursday.

Hill was returned to the reformatory by his father after the two visited Hill's parents at Circleville, but Travis headed for Columbus and was later picked up, officers said.

Circleville polise said Travis admitted taking a car owned by L. E. Ernsberger, 93 Dawson avenue. It was recovered at Port Clinton, officers said.

Hill was sentenced to the reformatory from Pickaway county on a juvenile delinquency charge. Travis was received from Licking county on burglary and auto theft charges.

UP AND DOWN the Street

WRONG SHOE

The split-second timing required in changing scenes and costumes on the stage sometimes brings about amusing results. The other night in a Kinsey show, Madge Kinsey was changing costumes for a specialty number between acts when she was called from the dressing room to attend to some backstage matter. Although she was fully in costume and ready for her number when the time came, she never noticed until a little boy pointed it out to her after the show, that she had played her part with two different-type shoes of contrasting colors.

AUTUMN SPURT IN BEEF OUTPUT IS PREDICTED

Porter Warns Producers Against Withholding Stock From Market.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Price Administrator Paul Porter declared today that the present meat shortage will be over in six or eight weeks.

The OPA chief told the nation in an address over the ABC network that "after we get over the hump of the next six or eight weeks, meat supplies should be fairly good."

Porter warned any producers withholding livestock from the market that they are "in for sorry disappointment" if they expect the present ceilings on meat to be broken. He added:

"The present ceilings—and the sensible farmer realizes this— are fair and equitable ceilings. And, except as the law requires us to modify them, there will be no upward adjustment of those ceilings."

Commenting on the meat shortage, the price chief declared:

"In late October, then and through November and December, there's every reason to expect a real spurt in beef production, compared to what we're getting now.

"This spurt should last at least through the first of next year. And from January on through the spring, beef supplies should be at least as good as they were in the early part of this year.

"What about pork supplies? By late October, the spring pig crop will begin to come to market. From that time on, hog marketings should continue good right up through February."

Porter declared that charges that the return of price ceilings had caused the current meat shortage were "ridiculous as well as fallacious."

GET ESTIMATES ON PAVING JOB

Commissioners Plan Repairs On Walks At Jail and Courthouse.

Richland county commissioners today received an estimate from the county engineer on paving repairs to sidewalks around the courthouse and jail.

No action had been taken on the estimates but the most favored plan is for concrete paving on the South Diamond street side of the jail and on the South Franklin street side of the county garage, with bituminous surfacing along west, north and east side of the courthouse. The cost of this plan was estimated at $1,081.

Meanwhile both the commissioners and Sheriff Frank E. Robinson were awaiting plans and an estimate on the proposed construction of an iron cage and door for the county jail.

The measurements were taken last Thursday by an engineer from the Mansfield Structure and Erecting company, Robinson said.

Action on both improvement projects will have to await an investigation of the courthouse and jail maintainance funds to determine if either or both projects can be financed, Commissioner C. L. Shoup said.
